

A-SEA

Meaning: A-SEA: adverb meaning adrift or at sea, especially in a state of being lost or in distress due to unfavorable conditions.

1. The sudden storm left the small sailboat a-sea and struggling.
2. After the engine failed, the fishing vessel found itself a-sea and drifting.
3. Completely a-sea, the castaways scanned the horizon for any sign of land.
4. Feeling a-sea in the vast ocean, the lone swimmer battled the current.
5. With no land in sight, the refugees were a-sea and desperate for rescue.
6. The abandoned cargo ship was reported a-sea, posing a hazard to navigation.
7. A-sea and without power, the yacht radioed a mayday signal.
8. Lost and a-sea, the crew rationed their dwindling supplies of water.
9. The container ship, listing badly, remained a-sea awaiting salvage.
10. After the collision, debris floated a-sea, marking the tragic event.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com
<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/a-sea>