

ABREPTION

Meaning: Abreption refers to the sudden separation or detachment of a part, particularly in a medical context, such as the separation of the placenta from the uterus or the tearing of tissue in the abdominal wall.

1. The doctor explained that abruption of the placenta can lead to serious complications during pregnancy.
2. After a thorough examination, the surgeon diagnosed the patient with an abruption in the abdominal wall.
3. Emergency responders acted quickly when they suspected an abruption during the car accident.
4. The sudden abruption of the storm caused chaos in the outdoor festival.
5. Her abrupt change in mood seemed like an emotional abruption that caught everyone off guard.
6. The team was taken by surprise by the abruption in their project timeline due to unexpected funding issues.
7. He felt an abruption in their conversation, signaling that she wanted to change the subject.
8. The abruption of the power supply left the entire neighborhood in darkness.
9. During the meeting, an abruption in communication led to misunderstandings and confusion.
10. The sudden abruption of the music marked the end of the performance, leaving the audience in stunned silence.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/abreption>