

ADULATOR

Meaning: Adulator: a person who excessively praises or flatters someone, often to gain favor or approval.

1. The famous actor surrounded himself with adulators who praised his every move.
2. In a room full of adulators, the politician basked in the glow of their admiration.
3. She quickly realized that her friend was more of an adulator than a true supporter.
4. His constant flattery revealed him to be nothing more than an adulator seeking favor.
5. The artist often felt overwhelmed by the adulators who crowded around him at exhibitions.
6. An adulator's praise can sometimes obscure the true value of one's work.
7. While he appreciated the attention, he grew weary of the relentless adulators.
8. Adulators often lose sight of reality, enamored by the persona rather than the person.
9. In a world full of adulators, genuine criticism can be hard to find.
10. The celebrity's adulator posted glowing reviews on every platform imaginable.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/adulator>