

AEGOPHONY

Meaning: Aegophony is an abnormal respiratory sound characterized by a high-pitched, bleating quality, often indicative of lung consolidation.

1. The doctor explained that aegophony can indicate the presence of lung consolidation.
2. During the physical exam, the physician listened for any signs of aegophony in the patient's chest.
3. Aegophony often occurs when fluid or infection alters the normal lung sounds.
4. In cases of pneumonia, healthcare providers frequently assess for aegophony as a diagnostic clue.
5. The subtle change in voice quality due to aegophony can be quite telling for a clinician.
6. Listening for aegophony requires careful attention to the patient's breathing patterns.
7. Understanding aegophony is crucial for medical professionals in respiratory assessment.
8. Aegophony is characterized by a distinct, nasal quality that can be heard during auscultation.
9. The presence of aegophony in a patient can signal a need for further imaging studies.
10. Clinicians often train to recognize aegophony as part of their respiratory examination skills.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/aegophony>