

AFFECTIBILITY

Meaning: Affectibility refers to the capacity to be emotionally influenced or affected by the feelings and emotions of others.

1. Affectibility is often considered a crucial factor in emotional intelligence.
2. Her high affectibility made her particularly sensitive to the feelings of others.
3. In psychology, affectibility refers to the capacity to experience emotions deeply.
4. The artist's affectibility allowed her to convey profound emotions through her work.
5. He struggled with affectibility, finding it challenging to manage overwhelming feelings.
6. Affectibility can influence interpersonal relationships and social interactions.
7. Children often exhibit high affectibility, responding strongly to their environment.
8. Understanding one's own affectibility can lead to better emotional regulation.
9. The novel explores the affectibility of its characters in the face of tragedy.
10. Researchers are studying the genetic components that may contribute to affectibility.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/affectibility>