

AGAST

Meaning: Agast: filled with shock or amazement; astonished.

1. She stood agast at the sight of the crumbling building.
2. The crowd was agast when the magician revealed his final trick.
3. He was left agast by the unexpected news of his promotion.
4. The children were agast as they watched the firework display light up the sky.
5. I was agast to discover the truth behind the mysterious disappearance.
6. They looked agast when the actor appeared unexpectedly on stage.
7. Her reaction was one of pure shock, leaving her agast and speechless.
8. The audience sat agast, unable to process the stunning performance they had just witnessed.
9. He was agast to find his childhood home had been completely renovated.
10. In the middle of the conversation, she shared an agast revelation that left everyone in disbelief.
11. She stood agast at the sight of the wreckage left by the storm.
12. The audience was agast when the magician revealed his final trick.
13. He was agast to discover that his childhood home had been completely destroyed.
14. The news left her agast, unable to comprehend the magnitude of the disaster.
15. They stared agast as the fireworks lit up the night sky in vibrant colors.
16. I was agast by the generosity of strangers during our time of need.
17. The teacher looked agast when the student presented such an innovative project.
18. Everyone was agast when the quiet artist unveiled her powerful new painting.
19. We were all agast at the unexpected turn of events during the meeting.
20. He felt agast when he learned he had won the prestigious award.