

ANTHROPOMORPHIZE

Meaning: To anthropomorphize is to attribute human characteristics, emotions, or behaviors to non-human entities, such as animals or inanimate objects.

1. Children often tend to anthropomorphize their toys, giving them personalities and voices.
2. In many cultures, animals are anthropomorphized in stories to help convey moral lessons.
3. When we anthropomorphize inanimate objects, we create a stronger emotional connection with them.
4. The movie's success largely stems from its ability to anthropomorphize the main character's pet.
5. Scientists warn against anthropomorphizing animals, as it can lead to misunderstandings of their behavior.
6. Through art, the artist sought to anthropomorphize nature, depicting trees and rivers with human traits.
7. It's easy to anthropomorphize our pets, seeing them as family members with thoughts and feelings.
8. Literature often encourages readers to anthropomorphize characters in order to foster empathy.
9. The campaign aimed to anthropomorphize the brand's mascot, making it more relatable to consumers.
10. When we anthropomorphize our emotions, we can better understand and navigate our feelings.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/anthropomorphize>