

ANTHROPONOMICAL

Meaning: Anthroponomical refers to the study or analysis of human names and naming practices within a cultural or social context.

1. The anthropological study revealed significant insights into human behavior.
2. Researchers applied an anthropological lens to understand cultural rituals.
3. Anthroponomical analysis can shed light on naming conventions across societies.
4. Her anthropological background allowed her to interpret the data more effectively.
5. The anthropological theory provided a framework for examining social structures.
6. Anthroponomical trends often reflect broader societal changes over time.
7. He published a paper on the anthropological implications of naming practices.
8. The conference focused on anthropological perspectives in contemporary research.
9. Anthroponomical research helps in understanding identity formation in communities.
10. The anthropological approach enriched the discussion on personal naming traditions.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/anthroponomical>