

APHLOGISTIC

Meaning: Aphlogistic refers to substances that are non-flammable or do not support combustion, challenging traditional chemical theories.

1. The concept of aphlogistic substances challenges traditional views of chemistry.
2. In discussions about combustion, the term aphlogistic often arises to describe non-flammable materials.
3. Many scientists debated the validity of aphlogistic theories in the light of modern chemistry.
4. His research focused on aphlogistic properties, attempting to redefine how we understand fire.
5. Aphlogistic ideas paved the way for significant advancements in our understanding of oxidation.
6. The notion of an aphlogistic element was once widely accepted before being disproven.
7. In the 18th century, aphlogistic substances were believed to be essential for combustion.
8. Her lecture on aphlogistic concepts captivated the audience with its historical context.
9. The aphlogistic theory was a cornerstone of early chemical philosophy.
10. Understanding aphlogistic principles can provide insight into the evolution of scientific thought.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/aphlogistic>