

APOLOGER

Meaning: APOLOGER: a person who seeks to reconcile or express regret in a conflict situation, often struggling to convey authentic remorse.

1. An apologist often finds it challenging to express genuine remorse without sounding insincere.
2. In a heated argument, he acted as an apologist, trying to mend the rift between friends.
3. Her role as the apologist in the family meant she was often sought out for peacekeeping.
4. Being an apologist can sometimes lead to others taking you for granted.
5. The apologist stepped forward, hoping to clarify the misunderstanding that had occurred.
6. As an apologist, she believed it was important to acknowledge her mistakes openly.
7. His talent as an apologist made him an invaluable asset during negotiations.
8. The apologist's heartfelt words resonated with the audience, fostering a sense of unity.
9. In a world full of conflict, an apologist plays a crucial role in healing relationships.
10. Despite being an apologist, she struggled to forgive herself for her past actions.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/apologer>