

APPOSITIONAL

Meaning: Appositional refers to a grammatical construction in which a noun or noun phrase is placed next to another noun or noun phrase to explain or identify it further.

1. The phrase "my brother, the doctor," demonstrates appositional structure in its clarity.
2. In her speech, she frequently used appositional phrases to add depth to her descriptions.
3. The appositional noun clause provided essential information about the subject without disrupting the flow of the sentence.
4. Understanding appositional relationships can enhance one's writing by adding precision and clarity.
5. His title, "chairman of the board," served as an appositional phrase that clarified his role.
6. The appositional elements in the sentence created a vivid picture of the scene being described.
7. Teachers often highlight appositional constructions to help students understand complex sentence structures.
8. In literature, appositional phrases can provide insightful commentary on characters and settings.
9. The artist, a renowned painter, was celebrated for her innovative techniques, showcasing appositional clarity.
10. Appositional phrases can also be useful in spoken language, adding emphasis to important details.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/appositional>