

ARGILLO-FERRUGINOUS

Meaning: Argillo-ferruginous refers to soil that is characterized by a mixture of clay (argil) and iron-rich components, making it fertile and suitable for agriculture.

1. The argillo-ferruginous soil in the region is rich in iron content.
2. Farmers often prefer argillo-ferruginous land for cultivating certain crops.
3. The study focused on the argillo-ferruginous layers found in the geological survey.
4. Researchers discovered an argillo-ferruginous deposit that dates back millions of years.
5. The argillo-ferruginous characteristics of the terrain affect local vegetation.
6. Environmentalists are concerned about the degradation of argillo-ferruginous ecosystems.
7. In the lab, scientists analyzed samples of argillo-ferruginous clay for mineral composition.
8. The argillo-ferruginous texture of the clay made it ideal for pottery-making.
9. Construction on the site was delayed due to the unexpected presence of argillo-ferruginous soil.
10. Agricultural experts recommend amendments to enhance the fertility of argillo-ferruginous fields.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/argillo-ferruginous>