

ARGUMENTABLE

Meaning: Argumentable: capable of being argued or debated; subject to differing interpretations or perspectives.

1. The concept of fairness in this debate is highly argumentable and can be approached from various perspectives.
2. In discussions about morality, many points become argumentable, depending on individual beliefs.
3. The political climate is so charged that every statement made is argumentable and often leads to heated debates.
4. Some topics are less argumentable than others, as they rely heavily on personal experience rather than objective facts.
5. Whether art should be considered a commodity is a highly argumentable issue among critics and artists alike.
6. The effectiveness of the proposed policy is argumentable, with valid points raised by both supporters and opponents.
7. In philosophy, many theories are argumentable, inviting rigorous examination and counterarguments.
8. When discussing historical events, the interpretation can be very argumentable, leading to differing conclusions.
9. Her stance on environmental issues is argumentable, with numerous studies supporting both sides of the argument.
10. Ultimately, the decision is argumentable, as it hinges on subjective interpretations of the available evidence.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/argumentable>