

ARROGANTLY

Meaning: ARROGANTLY: In a manner that shows an exaggerated sense of one's own importance or abilities, often dismissing others.

1. She spoke arrogantly, dismissing everyone else's opinions without a second thought.
2. He arrogantly assumed that his experience made him the best candidate for the job.
3. They entered the room arrogantly, as if their presence alone commanded respect.
4. The athlete arrogantly claimed victory before the competition even began.
5. She laughed arrogantly at her peers, believing she was far superior to them.
6. He walked into the meeting arrogantly, confident that he could sway everyone with his charm.
7. The manager addressed the team arrogantly, undermining their contributions to the project.
8. Even in defeat, he reacted arrogantly, insisting that luck was the only reason he lost.
9. She arrogantly criticized the work of others, oblivious to her own shortcomings.
10. His decision to ignore advice came across arrogantly, alienating those who wanted to help.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/arrogantly>