

AURICULARLY

Meaning: AURICULARLY: in a manner that is intended to be heard only by a specific individual or a select group, often involving whispers or quiet speech.

1. He spoke auricularly, ensuring his words were only heard by those closest to him.
2. The whispers in the room traveled auricularly, creating an air of secrecy among the gathered guests.
3. She leaned in auricularly to share her thoughts, making the conversation feel intimate and private.
4. During the lecture, the professor addressed the students auricularly, emphasizing the importance of discretion.
5. The secret message was conveyed auricularly, allowing only a select few to understand its meaning.
6. In the crowded café, they exchanged ideas auricularly, avoiding any unwanted eavesdropping.
7. He always preferred to communicate auricularly, valuing the closeness it brought to his discussions.
8. The detective leaned closer, speaking auricularly to avoid alerting anyone else in the room.
9. Their auricularly exchanged words carried a weight of significance, known only to them.
10. She had a knack for speaking auricularly, making her conversations feel like confidential exchanges.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/auricularly>