

AUTOTOXIC

Meaning: Autotoxic refers to the ability of a plant to negatively affect its own species by releasing harmful substances that inhibit the growth of nearby individuals.

1. The concept of autotoxicity refers to a plant's ability to harm its own species through the release of harmful substances.
2. Certain tree species exhibit autotoxic traits, preventing other seedlings from thriving in their vicinity.
3. Researchers are studying the autotoxic effects of certain chemicals released by invasive plant species.
4. Understanding autotoxic mechanisms can help improve forestry practices and promote biodiversity.
5. The phenomenon of autotoxicity highlights the delicate balance within ecosystems and the struggles for survival among species.
6. Farmers must consider autotoxicity when planting crops that might inhibit their growth due to allelopathic substances.
7. Autotoxic compounds can accumulate in the soil, leading to decreased growth rates in subsequent generations of plants.
8. The study of autotoxicity has significant implications for agricultural sustainability and crop rotation strategies.
9. Autotoxic interactions can influence the composition of plant communities in a given habitat.
10. Efforts to mitigate autotoxic effects may involve soil amendments or companion planting techniques.

---

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/autotoxic>