AVOUCHER

Meaning: Avoucher: to affirm or confirm the truth of something, especially in a legal context.

1. The witness will avoucher the events that transpired that night.
2. In court, the lawyer aimed to avoucher his client's claims with solid evidence.
3. She chose to avoucher her friend’s character despite the rumors circulating.
4. The document served to avoucher the authenticity of the ancient artifact.
5. To avoucher the transaction, he provided the signed contract as proof.
6. They needed someone to avoucher their experience at the conference.
7. Her testimony would avoucher the legitimacy of the accusations made.
8. He was called to avoucher the details of the incident for the investigation.
9. The expert was prepared to avoucher the findings of his research.
10. To avoucher their commitment, they signed a formal agreement.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/avoucher