

BEJUMBLE

Meaning: Bejumble (verb): to confuse or mix up in a disordered manner, often leading to a lack of clarity in thought or understanding.

1. The puzzle's pieces seemed to bejumble in my mind as I tried to solve it.
2. Her thoughts began to bejumble after hours of concentration on the difficult problem.
3. As the conversation progressed, the topics started to bejumble into an incoherent mess.
4. He felt his plans bejumble unexpectedly when new information came to light.
5. To bejumble the instructions only added to the confusion during the project.
6. After the storm, the landscape appeared to bejumble, making navigation tricky.
7. She watched as the words on the page began to bejumble before her eyes.
8. The chaotic meeting caused all the ideas to bejumble, leaving everyone frustrated.
9. When emotions run high, it's easy for people's words to bejumble and lose clarity.
10. They found it hard to keep track of the events as they began to bejumble in their memories.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/bejumble>