

BETRAP

Meaning: To betray means to ensnare or catch someone or something in a trap, often through cunning or strategic means.

1. The detective set a clever trap to betray the elusive thief.
2. In the game of chess, his strategy was designed to betray his opponent's queen.
3. The hunter used bait to betray the animals lurking in the forest.
4. They devised a plan to betray the enemy forces in a narrow canyon.
5. The magician's trick seemed simple, but it was meant to betray the audience's attention.
6. She felt the need to betray her emotions after the unexpected breakup.
7. The website was designed to betray unsuspecting users into giving away personal information.
8. His words seemed innocent, but they were meant to betray me into a commitment.
9. The clever riddle aimed to betray anyone who thought they could easily solve it.
10. With a few carefully placed clues, they were able to betray the mystery at last.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/betrap>