

BICCHED

Meaning: Bicched (adjective): excessively criticized or harshly judged.

1. The term 'bicched' is often used in slang to describe someone who has been excessively critical.
2. After her last performance, she felt completely bicched by the harsh reviews.
3. In the heated discussion, he realized he had been bicched by his peers without understanding their perspective.
4. She didn't want to appear bicched, so she softened her critique of the project.
5. Feeling bicched by her friends' comments, she decided to take a break from social media.
6. The team was bicched for their lack of creativity during the presentation.
7. He couldn't shake the feeling that he had been bicched unfairly in the latest meeting.
8. After reflecting on the feedback, she chose to embrace the bicched comments as opportunities for growth.
9. Despite being bicched, he remained optimistic about improving his skills.
10. She thought the criticism was too harsh and felt it was an unnecessary way to bicch someone.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/bicched>