

BLUFFER

Meaning: A bluffer is a person who pretends to have a stronger position or more knowledge than they actually do, often to deceive others.

1. She was a skilled bluffer, often deceiving her opponents during poker games.
2. His confidence was that of a bluffer, masking his lack of knowledge on the subject.
3. The seasoned player quickly identified him as a bluffer trying to raise the stakes.
4. In negotiations, a bluffer can sometimes gain an advantage by appearing more confident than they really are.
5. Even the most experienced bluffer can be caught off guard if their bluff is called.
6. His reputation as a bluffer preceded him, making others wary during any deal.
7. She knew that being a successful bluffer required not just deceit, but also a keen understanding of human psychology.
8. During the game, it became clear that he was just a bluffer, unable to back up his bold claims.
9. The bluffer's bravado could only last so long before the truth was revealed.
10. Her talent for reading others made her an adept bluffer in high-stakes situations.

---

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/bluffer>