

BLUSTERINGLY

Meaning: BLUSTERINGLY: In a manner characterized by loud, aggressive, or boastful behavior, often accompanied by a sense of forcefulness or bluster.

1. The wind was howling blusteringly as the storm approached the coast.
2. He entered the room blusteringly, trying to impress everyone with his bravado.
3. The politician spoke blusteringly, but his arguments lacked substance and clarity.
4. She navigated through the crowd blusteringly, determined to make her presence known.
5. The old ship rocked blusteringly on the waves, battling the fierce ocean currents.
6. His blusteringly confident demeanor masked the uncertainty he felt inside.
7. They argued blusteringly, each trying to outdo the other with loud claims and gestures.
8. The dog barked blusteringly at the passing cars, as if challenging them to enter its territory.
9. Blusteringly, he recounted the tale of his heroic adventures, captivating the audience.
10. The children played blusteringly in the park, their laughter echoing through the air.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/blusteringly>