

BUFFLE-HEADED

Meaning: Buffle-headed refers to a type of duck characterized by distinctive plumage and courtship behaviors, and it can also describe a person who appears foolish or scatterbrained but may show unexpected intelligence.

1. The buffle-headed duck is known for its striking plumage and unique courtship displays.
2. Despite his buffle-headed demeanor, he occasionally surprises us with moments of brilliance.
3. The biologist noted that the buffle-headed species migrates long distances during the winter.
4. Her buffle-headed approach to problem-solving often leads to unexpected and creative solutions.
5. During the nature walk, we spotted a buffle-headed male swimming gracefully on the pond.
6. He tends to make buffle-headed decisions when under pressure, which sometimes leads to funny outcomes.
7. The artist captured the essence of the buffle-headed duck in her vibrant painting.
8. His buffle-headed antics at the party kept everyone entertained throughout the night.
9. Buffle-headed behavior can often be mistaken for naivety, but it often hides a keen intelligence.
10. Watching a buffle-headed flock take flight is a sight to behold, as they rise in unison.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/buffle-headed>