

BUGLED

Meaning: Bugled: past tense of bugle; to sound a call or signal using a bugle, typically to summon or alert others.

1. The soldier bugled a triumphant call to rally his comrades.
2. As the sun set, the distant sound of a bugled announcement echoed through the valley.
3. She bugled at the top of her lungs, celebrating her team's victory.
4. The hiker bugled a melody that stirred the animals in the forest.
5. In the parade, the band bugled a spirited tune that energized the crowd.
6. He bugled a cheerful greeting that brought smiles to everyone's faces.
7. The referee bugled the start of the game, signaling the teams to take their positions.
8. During the ceremony, the trumpeter bugled a haunting tune that left everyone in awe.
9. The boy bugled like a pro, mimicking the sounds he heard at the band practice.
10. At dawn, the hunter bugled to attract the attention of passing deer.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/bugled>