

BUNKO

Meaning: Bunko refers to a type of swindling or con game, often involving deception to defraud individuals.

1. The magician's performance was so convincing that I almost fell for his bunko trick.
2. After a long investigation, the police finally caught the bunko artist who had been scamming the locals.
3. She realized too late that the investment opportunity was just a bunko scheme designed to con her out of money.
4. The elderly couple was devastated when they discovered they had been victims of a bunko operation.
5. Despite his charm, he was nothing more than a bunko who preyed on unsuspecting victims.
6. The local community organized a seminar to educate residents about bunko scams and how to avoid them.
7. When I heard the tale of the bunko that duped so many, I couldn't help but feel a sense of anger.
8. The detective specialized in bunko cases, often uncovering elaborate frauds that others overlooked.
9. Her experience with bunko situations made her more cautious in her financial dealings.
10. Even the seasoned con artist fell for a bunko scheme, proving that anyone could be deceived.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/bunko>