

BY-PRODUCT

Meaning: A by-product is a secondary product generated during the production or manufacturing process, which is not the primary aim of that process.

1. The production of biofuels often generates glycerin as a by-product.
2. In the manufacturing process, scrap metal can be a valuable by-product.
3. The research team discovered that the fermentation resulted in a useful by-product.
4. Recycling plastic usually yields a by-product that can be used in other products.
5. The by-product of this chemical reaction is harmful if not properly managed.
6. Herbal tea production creates a fragrant by-product that can be used in potpourri.
7. In agriculture, composting often turns waste into a beneficial by-product.
8. The by-product of their collaboration was a new approach to sustainable practices.
9. When processing fruits, juice pulp is often an overlooked by-product.
10. The technology developed produced a surprising by-product that enhanced efficiency.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/by-product>