

CHIT

Meaning: Chit: a small piece of paper or note, often used for a specific purpose such as a receipt, ticket, or message.

1. The children laughed as they played with the colorful chit they found in the park.
2. She took a moment to examine the chit that detailed her travel itinerary.
3. The game required players to collect chits in order to earn points and advance.
4. He handed her a chit with his phone number scrawled across it, hoping she would call.
5. The teacher distributed chits that represented different roles in the upcoming class debate.
6. The children gathered around the table, excitedly exchanging chit about their summer adventures.
7. During the meeting, the manager handed out a chit for everyone to write down their questions.
8. She was known for her witty chit, always making her friends laugh with her clever remarks.
9. The gossip spread through the office like wildfire, fueled by a few careless chits exchanged at lunch.
10. He slid a chit under the door, hoping she would read it and understand his feelings.
11. The group gathered to share witty chit and laughter over coffee.
12. She received a small chit from the cashier as proof of her purchase.
13. Their conversation was filled with playful chit, making the atmosphere lively.
14. The teacher handed out a chit detailing the homework assignments for the week.
15. He scribbled a quick chit to remind himself of the meeting time later.