

CITATION

Meaning: Citation: a reference to a source of information or a formal acknowledgment of someone's contributions, typically used in academic or professional contexts.

1. The researcher included a citation to support her argument in the academic paper.
2. He received a citation for his outstanding contributions to the field of environmental science.
3. In the bibliography, every citation was meticulously formatted according to the latest style guide.
4. The professor emphasized the importance of proper citation to avoid plagiarism in student essays.
5. After being pulled over, he was issued a citation for running a stop sign.
6. The researcher included numerous citations to support her arguments in the paper.
7. In academic writing, a proper citation is essential to give credit to the original authors.
8. The professor emphasized the importance of using correct citation formats during the lecture.
9. He received a citation for his groundbreaking work in renewable energy technologies.
10. To avoid plagiarism, students must always reference their sources with accurate citations.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/citation>