

CLANG

Meaning: Clang: a loud, resonant sound produced when metal objects collide or strike each other.

1. The metal gate swung open with a loud clang that echoed through the empty courtyard.
2. As the blacksmith hammered the iron, each strike produced a rhythmic clang that filled the workshop.
3. The dropped pot hit the floor with a surprising clang, startling everyone in the quiet kitchen.
4. During the storm, the wind caused the old bell to clang wildly, creating an eerie sound in the night.
5. She felt a rush of adrenaline as the sword met the shield with a fierce clang in the arena.
6. As the blacksmith struck the hot iron, a sharp clang resonated in the workshop, announcing his skill.
7. The fallen pot hit the floor with a clang, scattering its contents across the tile.
8. A clang from the construction site interrupted our conversation, drawing our attention to the busy workers.
9. She winced at the clang of the cymbals, which seemed to pierce through the festive atmosphere.
10. The old metal gate swung open with a loud clang that echoed through the empty yard.
11. As the blacksmith hammered the iron, each strike produced a satisfying clang that filled the workshop.
12. A clang from the kitchen signaled that someone had dropped a pot on the floor.
13. In the distance, the church bells began to clang, announcing the arrival of the evening service.
14. The car's door slammed shut with a deafening clang, startling the birds in the nearby trees.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/clang>