

COINQUINATION

Meaning: Coinquination refers to the contamination or mixing of different substances, particularly in the context of mineral or soil samples, leading to a decrease in purity.

1. Coinquination can lead to significant losses in the purity of a mineral sample.
2. The researchers were concerned about the coinquination of the two different soil types in the study area.
3. During the experiment, they observed signs of coinquination affecting the chemical properties of the compounds.
4. Understanding the process of coinquination is essential for accurate geological assessments.
5. Efforts to prevent coinquination have become a priority in many environmental conservation projects.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/coinquination>