

CONCORDIST

Meaning: A concordist is a person who attempts to reconcile or harmonize religious beliefs, particularly scriptural accounts, with scientific findings.

1. The concordist approach to interpreting ancient texts often seeks to harmonize scientific discoveries with scriptural accounts.
2. As a concordist, she believed that faith and reason could coexist without conflict in understanding the universe.
3. In the debate over evolution, the concordist perspective argues for a reading of Genesis that aligns with established scientific theories.
4. Many concordists advocate for a view of creation that acknowledges both divine influence and natural processes.
5. His concordist position aimed to bridge the gap between religious beliefs and modern scientific findings.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/concordist>