CONCRETION

Meaning: Concretion: a compact mass formed by the accumulation of mineral matter or organic material, often found in geological contexts or within biological systems.

1. The geologist discovered a rare concretion that contained fossils from millions of years ago.
2. In the digestive system of some animals, food can form a hard concretion that affects their health.
3. The artist used a variety of materials to create a striking piece that resembled a natural concretion.
4. During the excavation, workers stumbled upon a concretion that sparked a debate among scientists.
5. The concretion formed in the riverbed over centuries, showcasing the area's geological history.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/concretion