

CONFLATING

Meaning: Conflating refers to the act of combining or mixing two distinct concepts or issues, often leading to confusion or misinterpretation.

1. The researcher warned against conflating correlation with causation in her study.
2. In his speech, the politician seemed to be conflating two unrelated issues to sway public opinion.
3. Teachers often find themselves conflating students' academic performance with their overall behavior.
4. The article was criticized for conflating different cultural practices without acknowledging their unique contexts.
5. When discussing climate change, experts caution against conflating short-term weather patterns with long-term trends.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/conflating>