

DECLAIM

Meaning: To declaim means to speak or recite something in a formal, loud, and passionate manner.

1. He stood on the stage to declaim his passionate speech about freedom.
2. The actor chose to declaim Shakespeare's sonnets with great enthusiasm.
3. During the debate, she began to declaim her arguments with fervor and conviction.
4. The professor would often declaim the importance of ethics in modern society.
5. At the rally, the activist took the microphone to declaim against injustice and inequality.
6. The actor began to declaim his lines with such passion that the audience was captivated.
7. In her speech, she chose to declaim against the injustices faced by marginalized communities.
8. He would often declaim poetry in the park, drawing a small crowd of admirers.
9. As the debate heated up, each participant began to declaim their viewpoints with fervor.
10. The professor encouraged his students to declaim their thoughts on the subject with confidence and clarity.

---

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/declaim>