

DELIQUINATION

Meaning: Deliquiation is the process of removing moisture or liquid from a substance, often used in the context of mineral extraction or sample preparation.

1. The scientist explained the process of deliquiation as a crucial step in the extraction of minerals.
2. In the lab, they observed the deliquiation of the sample as it was subjected to varying temperature conditions.
3. Understanding deliquiation is essential for developing efficient methods of removing moisture from certain compounds.
4. The deliquiation phenomenon can significantly alter the physical properties of the material being studied.
5. During the experiment, the team recorded the effects of deliquiation on the solubility of various salts in the solution.

---

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/deliquiation>