DEPAINT

Meaning: Depaint (verb): To remove paint from a surface, often to prepare it for a new application or to restore its original appearance.

1. The artist decided to depaint the mural to create a fresh perspective for the community.
2. After years of wear and tear, the old sign needed to be depainted before a new one could be installed.
3. In her latest project, she aimed to depaint the historical building and restore its original charm.
4. To preserve the art's integrity, the conservator was careful to depaint only the faded layers.
5. The process to depaint the canvas revealed vibrant colors that had been hidden for decades.
6. The artist decided to depaint the old mural to make way for a new design.
7. In a surprising twist, the team managed to depaint the entire surface in just one afternoon.
8. To restore the building's original charm, they hired professionals to depaint the faded facade.
9. She had to depaint the canvas before starting her next masterpiece, as she wasn’t satisfied with the previous work.
10. The process to depaint the walls took longer than expected due to the multiple layers of old paint.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/depaint