

DEPORT

Meaning: To deport means to expel a person from a country, typically a foreign national, often due to legal or immigration violations.

1. The government decided to deport the undocumented immigrants after the new policy was implemented.
2. In a controversial move, the court ruled that the asylum seeker could be deported back to their home country.
3. Activists are rallying against the plan to deport families who have lived in the country for years.
4. He faced the possibility of being deported if he failed to secure legal status before the deadline.
5. The authorities worked diligently to ensure that the deportation process was conducted humanely and fairly.
6. The government decided to deport individuals who violated their visa conditions.
7. After a lengthy legal battle, the court ruled that they could not deport the family.
8. Many activists rallied to protest the planned deportations of undocumented immigrants.
9. He faced the possibility of being deported if he was unable to secure legal status.
10. The agency has strict protocols in place to ensure that deportations are handled humanely.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/deport>