

DEPULSE

Meaning: DEPULSE (verb): To drive back or away; to repel or cause a feeling of rejection or discomfort.

1. The sudden loud noise seemed to depulse the crowd, causing many to step back in surprise.
2. Her harsh words were enough to depulse him, leaving him feeling unwelcome in the conversation.
3. He felt an instinctive urge to depulse from the gathering, sensing an uncomfortable tension in the air.
4. In their argument, she inadvertently managed to depulse him with her biting sarcasm.
5. The unexpected twist in the plot served to depulse readers, leaving them questioning the characters' motives.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/depulse>