

DESIRABLENESS

Meaning: Desirableness refers to the quality of being highly sought after or attractive, often resulting in strong demand or appeal.

1. The desirableness of the new product was evident in the overwhelming demand from consumers.
2. Her charm and wit added to the overall desirableness of her personality, making her a favorite among her peers.
3. Real estate agents often emphasize the desirableness of a neighborhood when marketing homes for sale.
4. In the context of job offers, the desirableness of the position can be influenced by salary, benefits, and work-life balance.
5. The desirableness of a vacation destination can often be determined by its accessibility and available attractions.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/desirableness>