

DIDACTICALLY

Meaning: Didactically means in a manner intended to teach or instruct, often with an emphasis on clarity and understanding.

1. The professor presented the complex theories didactically, ensuring that every student grasped the core concepts.
2. In her speech, she addressed the audience didactically, breaking down the information into easily digestible segments.
3. The children's book was written didactically, with clear morals woven into each story to teach valuable lessons.
4. He approached the topic didactically, using examples and analogies to clarify his points for the listeners.
5. The workshop was structured didactically, allowing participants to learn through hands-on activities and discussions.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/didactically>