

DISPROFESS

Meaning: Disprofess: to formally reject or renounce a previously held belief or claim.

1. He chose to disprofess his earlier beliefs after a thorough examination of the evidence.
2. In the heated debate, she attempted to disprofess the claims made by her opponent.
3. Many philosophers caution against the temptation to disprofess ideas without considering their merit.
4. The scientist decided to disprofess his previous theory when new data emerged.
5. It can be challenging to disprofess deeply held convictions, even in the face of contrary facts.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/disprofess>