

DRINKABLENESS

Meaning: Drinkableness refers to the quality or condition of being safe and suitable for human consumption as a beverage, particularly in relation to water.

1. The drinkableness of that water source was questionable after the heavy rains.
2. Scientists are developing new methods to test the drinkableness of various water supplies.
3. In many regions, the drinkableness of tap water is monitored regularly to ensure safety.
4. Assessing the drinkableness of a beverage involves checking for contaminants and taste.
5. The company's new filtration system significantly improved the drinkableness of the well water.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/drinkableness>