

EMPOISON

Meaning: Empoison (verb): to corrupt or negatively influence a situation or relationship, often causing harm or discord.

1. The scandal seemed to empoison the entire relationship between the two families.
2. His constant negativity began to empoison the otherwise cheerful atmosphere in the office.
3. Even a small lie can empoison trust and lead to misunderstandings.
4. The toxic waste had the potential to empoison the local drinking water supply.
5. Her harsh words threatened to empoison the friendship they had built over the years.
6. The rumor spread through the office, quietly empoisoning the once harmonious atmosphere.
7. Years of neglect had empoisoned the once vibrant river, disrupting the local ecosystem.
8. His bitter words seemed to empoison her joy, overshadowing the celebration.
9. The toxic waste leaked into the soil, empoisoning the crops and endangering the food supply.
10. A sense of distrust began to empoison their friendship, turning small disagreements into major conflicts.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/empoison>