

ENERVE

Meaning: ENERVE (verb): to drain someone of energy or vitality; to weaken or exhaust.

1. The long meeting seemed to enerve everyone involved, leaving them exhausted and unfocused.
2. After a week of sleepless nights, the constant worry began to enerve her to the point of distraction.
3. His relentless questions about the project served only to enerve the team, diminishing their enthusiasm.
4. The oppressive heat during the hike began to enerve the group, prompting them to take frequent breaks.
5. She found that too much caffeine in the morning could enerve her by the afternoon, making it hard to concentrate.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/enerve>