

EQUIPONDERANT

Meaning: Equiponderant: having equal weight or importance; balanced in force or influence.

1. The two teams presented equiponderant arguments, making it difficult for the jury to favor one over the other.
2. In the debate, each speaker offered equiponderant points that highlighted the complexity of the issue at hand.
3. The scientific evidence presented was equiponderant, leaving the researchers with no clear direction for their study.
4. During their negotiation, both parties had equiponderant leverage, resulting in a stalemate that required further discussions.
5. The equiponderant nature of their talents made it hard for the judge to declare a clear winner in the competition.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/equiponderant>