

FACTIONARY

Meaning: Factionary: a group or faction within a larger organization or movement, often characterized by differing ideologies and internal conflict.

1. The factionary within the group struggled to unite the differing ideologies of its members.
2. In times of political turmoil, the factionary often becomes a breeding ground for conflict and division.
3. Despite their differences, the factionary managed to present a united front during the negotiations.
4. Her role in the factionary was pivotal in shaping the party's platform and direction.
5. The factionary's influence was evident in the recent changes to the organization's leadership structure.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/factionary>