

FALTER

Meaning: FALTER: to hesitate or waver in confidence, strength, or purpose.

1. She began to falter in her confidence as the deadline approached.
2. His voice did not falter as he delivered the difficult news to his team.
3. The athlete's performance started to falter after the grueling match.
4. Despite her initial determination, she began to falter under the pressure of expectations.
5. The company's profits began to falter, prompting a serious review of their strategies.
6. She began to falter during her speech, struggling to find the right words.
7. The athlete started to falter as fatigue set in, slowing her pace significantly.
8. Despite his confidence, he could not help but falter when faced with unexpected questions.
9. The company's profits began to falter, raising concerns among investors.
10. As the storm approached, the once steady winds began to falter and shift unpredictably.
11. The hiker began to falter as the steep incline took its toll on her stamina.
12. Despite her confidence, she could feel herself start to falter during the presentation.
13. The team's performance began to falter after their star player was injured.
14. He tried to maintain his composure, but his voice began to falter under the pressure.
15. As she approached the finish line, doubt crept in and made her falter for a moment.
16. He began to falter in his confidence as the deadline approached.
17. As the storm intensified, the hikers did not falter in their determination to reach the summit.
18. Her voice started to falter when she spoke about her childhood memories.
19. The negotiations seemed to falter after the unexpected announcement from the government.
20. Despite his initial success, he began to falter under the pressure of public scrutiny.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/falter>