

FIELDWORK

Meaning: Fieldwork is the practical research conducted outside of a laboratory or office, involving direct observation and data collection in a natural or specific environment.

1. Fieldwork is essential for gathering firsthand data in natural science research.
2. The anthropologist spent several months in the remote village conducting fieldwork to understand local traditions.
3. During her fieldwork, she discovered unexpected patterns in the migratory behavior of the birds.
4. Many students find fieldwork to be the most rewarding part of their academic training in environmental studies.
5. Effective fieldwork requires not only careful planning but also adaptability to changing conditions in the field.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/fieldwork>