

FLOCCULAR

Meaning: Floccular refers to a structure or arrangement characterized by the formation of small, fluffy clusters or aggregates, often seen in sediments or particle groupings.

1. The floccular structure of the sediment was a clear indication of the water's quality.
2. Researchers observed the floccular aggregation of particles under the microscope.
3. In the laboratory, the floccular formation was crucial for the success of their experiment.
4. The floccular nature of the sample suggested that it had undergone significant biological activity.
5. They noted that the floccular behavior of the cells changed in response to varying environmental conditions.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/floccular>