

FRAGMENTAL

Meaning: Fragmental: relating to or consisting of fragments; characterized by incomplete or disconnected parts.

1. The artist's work was characterized by a fragmental style that captured fleeting moments of life.
2. In her essay, she explored the fragmental nature of memory and how it shapes our identities.
3. The novel's narrative was intentionally fragmental, reflecting the disjointed experiences of the protagonist.
4. His fragmental thoughts often led to profound insights, despite their lack of coherence.
5. The archaeological site revealed fragmental artifacts that offered glimpses into a long-lost civilization.
6. The artist's style was intentionally fragmental, showcasing pieces of different influences in each work.
7. His memory of the event was fragmental, with only disjointed images and sounds lingering in his mind.
8. The novel's fragmental narrative structure left readers piecing together the storyline from scattered vignettes.
9. During the debate, her argument was criticized for being too fragmental and lacking a cohesive thread.
10. The scientist presented fragmental evidence that suggested the theory was worth investigating further.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/fragmental>